

On the 25'th of March 2012 in Weimar, MitOst organized a civil society seminar for EU countries, Albania and Macedonia, which I was lucky to attend. The selection of participants for the seminar was through applications, and the participants were divided into three groups according to interest: diversity, youth empowerment, and social activism.

I was a part of the group focusing on diversity, and therefore had the chance to share some information about our CLAP project with people who had a genuine interest, from youth educators on the topics of integration to penitentiary workers, as well as receive some relevant tips and new methods from them. We all shared informational materials, such as fliers, cards, usb sticks and contact information.

This seminar was a good space for networking, and our facilitators gave us every chance to share our experiences. There will be a follow-up seminar in Brussels starting on the 17'th of September which I will also attend.

Alexandra Pana
Junior researcher

CPIP

